THE correspondence between the Chairman of the Foochow Chamber of Commerce and the British Consul at that port with reference tion in the river Min, published in our columns yesterday, shows that the Foochow residents Pagoda Island. So long ago as the 26th | June the Tsung-li Yamen assured the British Chargé d'Affaires at Peking that telegraphic promptly opened to trade, but it would seem either that the provincial officials preferred to take their own time in removing the impediments in the Min river or that the tardiness of the French in evacuating the Pescadores induced the Chinese Government to suspend execution of the first in structions. It can well be imagined that the sturdy old veteran Tso Tsung-tand would unhescalingly disregard the orders from Peking it in his opinion the action of the French give ground for the suspicion that they werenot complying with the stipulations of the agreement. Anyhow, it appears certain that the French remained at the Pescato retire that orders were given by the Chinese to stop the work of removing the obstruction in the river Yang at Chinhai which had been commenced, and the re-opening to navigation of the Min was probably deferred for the same reason. In charity we effect of making the Kwangtung Authorities retain the barriers in the Canton river. The great loss through the blocking of the Chukiang. As mex impleof this loss we may mention that the Hongkong, Canton, and Macan Steamboat Company have had to pay some closed, to say nothing of other expenses. ocean steamers through not being able the steamers have now to wait are sometimes unable to keep their time of arrival or departure. In the case of the navigation of the inconvenience are both caused, at Foothow danger has to be added, the anchorage at risk from torpedoes, which may get loose, is considerable.

We sincerely hope that by this date, the evacuation of the Pescadores having been accomplished, the Fukien Authorities have set about the work of clearing the Min of the torpedoes and obstacles to navigation, and that no further delay will take place in rendering the Canton river free from ob. structions. There can be no excuse for further delay now the Pescadores are va over the ship's side from washing on board in her youth, announces her intention of looking and status of the agent at Macao. cated, and it will be the duty of the Foreign Representatives to urge compliance with the Tsung-li Yamen's telegraphed instructions unless these are promptly carried into effect. The replies of the British Consul at Foochow to the representations of the Chairman of the Chamber of Commerce at that port seem to us to savour of a desire to make light of he matter and to justify the permanent relention of the Sharp Peak anchorage. Mr. Sinclain has resided so many years in China that, like some other Consular officials, he seen s to view questions affeeting British trade from somewhat of a Chinese point of view. Nor is the intimation made to the Consul by the Viceroy that, on the total evacuation of the Pescidores by the French, he will, in and China. conjunction with the High Imperial Commissioner and the Tartar Commander-in-Chief, apply for instructions to the Tsung-li Yamen at all satisfactory or reassuring. If it be true that that Board has already transmitted instructions through the telegraphic wire to the different authorities to clear obstructions at all ports, what occasion is there for the Fukien Authorities to ask for a repetition of the order? Either such instruc- over tions have not yet been received at Foochow or the officials there are seeking pretexts for fresh delay. The Chinese Authorities can have no object in retaining the barriers at the different ports when danger of invasion has distinctly passed, and, to dot them justice, the Central Government have shown no disposition to defer their removal, But processtination is a vice common to many Chinese officials-who take no note of and attach no value to time-and the delay is probably due to the provincial authorities. If the foreign Consuls at Foodhow and Canton plainly represent to the mandarins the loss and annovance which every day's neglect to remove these obstructions causes to merchants and shipowners they may be persuaded to hurry on the operations for clearing the rivers. Unfortunately this is hardly the kind of communication to be expected from gentlemen like Mr. Sinclair, who appears to consider any demand or representation by foreign merchants as a sign of impatience or unreasonableness.

the Willard Company, after a long interval, made another appearance before a Hongkong audience. The piece selected for representation was Hawtrey's farcical comedy "The Private Secretary." and, with the assistance of several gentlemen umateurs, Mr. Willard was enabled to place it on the stage in a most-oreditable manner. There was a very good house notwithstanding the heat and rain, which fell more or less all the night.
